

Dear borrower of Turtles Secrets of the Shell exhibit,

This exhibit has been produced by the National Mississippi River Museum & Aquarium in Dubuque Iowa with partial funding through the Resource Enhancement And Protection (REAP) Conservation Education Program. This special exhibit at the National Mississippi River Museum & Aquarium has exhibited all of the materials and displays in this traveling exhibit that you will have the option to display at your facility.

There is a contract for this exhibit in the front pocket of the three-ringed binder accompanying this exhibit. We would ask that you fill this out and mail, FAX, or e-mail a copy back to the National Mississippi River Museum & Aquarium upon receipt of the exhibit materials.

The museum & aquarium marketing department has also produced some media information for your use, which is contained on the turtle flash drive.

There are templates on the turtle flash drive to reproduce colored labels or vinyl overlays to add to the overall look of this exhibit. Any expense to reproduce these or other additional features to the exhibit will be your responsibility.

When finished with the exhibit it will be the borrowing facilities responsibility to arrange for repacking the exhibit and arranging for a transfer to the next borrowing facility.

We hope you, your visiting public, and school children both enjoy and learn more about turtles in Iowa and throughout the world, and to gain a better sense of stewardship for this fascinating animal.
